THE columns of the NATIONAL REPUBLI-CAN are at the service of the President for the publication of a list of Democratic officials removed for offensive partisanship, the President, who has forbidden "pernic-lous activity" on the part of federal officeholders, is now grinding his unickersnee preparatory to a descent on the perniciously active in Vermont?

WITHIN the next five years it would not be surprising to see Tennessee go Republican. — Bultimore American.

If the Bourbons will permit Tennessee can readily be placed in the Republican column. All the indications point in that direction. But there are Democratiq leaders now to this city who firmly declare that Mississippi methods shall be employed, if necessary, to hold on to Tennessee. They mean just what they say.

MAYOR CARTER HARRISON, of Chicago, is certainly entitled to credit for frankness in the avowal of his political ambition. He

I am not a candidate for Congress, and will not be under any circumstances. I propose to run for mayor for a fifth term, and I will be elected. Then, on the record I have made by being elected five times as mayer of a Repub-lican city, I propose to succeed Shelby M. Cut-lon in the United States Senate.

On such a record as that Carter might put In a good claim to supersede Satan in com

Mons tian one hundred federal office-holders attended the Vermont Democratic convention on the 22d instant. The New York Tribune states that "the United States marshal and a large number of postmasters eat as delegates. A convention organized in that way was, of course, a unanimous body, and it approved everything the Presi-dent has done. This sort of thing has been going on all over the country. The Demo-cratic politicians are willing to let the President do as much talking about civil service reform as he pleases, as long as he continues to refrain from doing anything to give effect to his talk." When the President gets through the list of private pension bills he will find time to attend to violations of his civil service order.

In another column will be found an in-teresting statement of the embarrassing position now occupied by the United States diplomats who are sent abroad for the tenefit of their country. The writer complains that the representatives of American interests in Europe are restricted to purely political negotiations, and are debarred from luterfering with the less showy but. probably, more useful matters of commerce. The examples of Prince Bismarck and Lord Roseberry are quoted to prove how dillgently these statesmen endeavor to stimuate the business interests of their respective countries by means of their diplomatic bull up for consideration he will do it.

and consular representatives, and the great | Breakfast Table Letter to the President. ubject to which Mr. Eugene Schuyler has given so much attention is opened up gain-namely, the necessity of enlarging the sphere of action for our ministers and consuls in foreign countries.

"Tur late A. T. Stewart," says Harper's Weekly, "found it to his advantage to give to each head of a department of his bustiess a percentage of the profits made in that department, in addition to a guaran eed salary. One year the head of his lace department earned $27,000, and the head of another department $20,000, the percentage being about one per cent, of the profits of the department." The wonderful commercial success of A. T. Stewart is a strong argument in favor of that co-operative orinciple which, in the minds of all thinkng men, is to be the true solution of the present difficulties between labor and cap-ital. Slavery was the primitive relation which labor bore to the employer. Compe tition then entered the market, and has proved so hard a taskmaster that it generated, among intelligent workers, strikes, trade associations, secret societies, and countless other forms of labor combinadone. The tendency of all civilized communities is now in the direction of co-operation, under which system every employe, in every occupation, shall have a certain percentage of the profits, over and above his wages, the amount to be regulated by each man's merit.

The fund for a monument to Gen. Grant went up like a rocket and came down like Tus temperance Republicans of Indiana the stick. According to an exchange, one dollar and a quarter was the total contribution to the Grant monument fund on Thursday. It is further stated that with the paper and ink which this money bought Sceretary Richard T. Greener, of the fund association, was able to send to each news paper in New York city a request "that you scoundrels who have made millions out of will kindly interest, through your editorial columns, the different members of Congress n passing House bill No. 1600, proposing to donate $250,000, to be expended at the dis-cretion of Congress, in conjunction with the association, for a suitable memorial to Gen. Grant at Riverside. The bill is on the regular calendar of the House, and un-doubtedly an editorial in your influential journal would greatly aid in stimulating public interest." Such is fame!

PRESIDENT SEELYE, of Amberst College. asks, in the July number of the Forum, why we should teach the life of Julius Casar in our schools and not that of Jesus Christ, The answer is oblious. Every American parent would like to see his or her son a cessful politician, statesman, lawyer soldier, or even newspaper person. Under the influence of Cwsar's career a child might hope to "get there," but the sermon on the mount must inevitably cause the Wall street to begin to suspect that its dicchild to "get left" in each and all of the professions mentioned.

ALTHOUGH matrimonial alliances between American befresses and European noblemen need not be necessarily unfortunate. in these latter days they seem to be so only too frequently. The latest finsco reported is the breaking up of the engagement between Miss Minnie Smith, sister of Mrs. W. K. Vandertdit, and Count Moram, an Italian nobleman. It was discovered that the illustrious count's estates are owned by money lenders and that his family jowelare in pawn.

ROYALTY recodes before the rebel in freland. The mayor of Waterford held a meeting of citizens on Thursday, and resolutions were passed to the effect that the portrait of Gen. Thomas Francis Meaguer should be hung in the council chamber of his native city, in place of the royal portraits, which are to be removed. This is a considerable change of tune from that of 1848, when young "Meagher of the sword" was convicted of scattion and sentenced to death.

This excitement about the provision in the extradition treaty which provides for the surrender of fugitives charged with "malicious injury to personal property whereby the life of any person shall be enreformatory purpose, laid bars certain vices of the aristocracy that were perhaps more crimi-nal, but very much less indecent, than the testiment of the Crawford blike case.—In-which they express constitute a criminal ofwhich they express constitute a criminal ofof course, be treated accordingly.

It is reported that Lord Salisbury pro poses to offer Mr. Parnell the chief socretaryship of Ireland. This is the muces moonshine. The tory government could not afford to make the offer, and Mr. Parnell could not afford to accept the position. It would destroy absolutely all his Influence with the Irish people.

SPEAKER CARLISLE has written to Charles F. McKenns, of Pittsburg, to say that he is in favor of the bill increasing the pensions of onearmed and one-legged soldiers, and promises

MR. PRESIDENT: In a recent allusion to your administration on foreign affairs, Rear Admiral Ammen says that we have replaced the American eagle with the American goose as an emblem of national power. The admiral a disappointment in the failure of the Moaragua treaty, and the further fact that for the past four months German engineers have been examining the Nicaragua canal route to make it a German Instead of an American enterprise, has served to embitter and inspire the admiral to make a statement that was illustrative if not literally true. The American people, however, have only o read the congressional record of the Democratic House of Representatives, where they will find ample proof that, so far as the Democratic leaders of that body are concerned, the Americen goese best illustrates their national policy. Even Mr. Randall has stated that the various elements of the Democratic party "flap their wines together." At the government fredrough the free trader, the protectionist, the Mugwump, and the administration Democrats all swallow their provender, stretch, their loss and necks, flap their wings and cry "quack ! mack ! quack !" When the tariff bill is under discussion they him and quack, but again assemble at the trough and flap their wines together; then further tariff legislation is put to

When the greatest measure of the age-for. the education of the filterate-by an overwhelming vote was passed by the Senate and sent to the House, it was received with quacks and bisses, so that the Blair bill, a measure that is approved by the masses of the American people, is allowed to slumber.

The fortifying of our seacoast, the proper enlargement of the navy, legislation for a sound and sensible currency, and last, but not least, practical legislation in the interest of labor, white and black, all these bills have been quacked and bissed to death by this Democratic Courtess of American giese. But when they are hungry, you are well aware, Mr. President, what is necessary to make them flap their wings together.

But recently a British statesman has expressed the opinion that a British federation. embracing the colonies and the United States, might be formed under one imperial government. Does it not appear to you, Mr. President, that, in the world's judgment, we have substituted the goose for the eagle? If Carlisie, Morrison, and Randall would recommend it, the balance of the birds would undoubtedly flan their wings together.

In a few days they will fly away, to return in the fall. In the meantime the American people will quietly put a label on the great majority of them as "dead ducks."

Contrast this record with that of the American Senate; every measure that tends to elerate, callghten, and strengthen the nation has been discussed, analyzed, and adopted in statesmanlike form. The action of this Squate in providing for the succession of executive ower bears the highest evidence of patriotsm, for which they will be remembered and concred in gratitude in this and all future ime so long as our republic may live, and the earle shall be our emblem of natioffal power. THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN,

REPRESENTATION ABROAD. A Lesson From Bismarck to the United States - What a Foreign Minister's Duties Should Be. EDITOR NATIONAL REPUBLICAN: Patriotic American citizens have long felt that there was something radically defective in their representation abroad, and that American in-terests suffered severely in consequence of the "masterly inactivity" of their ministers at foreign courts. Many of these representatives have seemed to think that the only objects o their missions were to amuse themselves, to aly foreign nobility, and exchange empty compli-ments with the royalties to whom they have been accredited. Hitherto, bowever, although some of them have accepted presents from foreign potentates indirectly, through near relatives (as President Cieveland has lately de-cimed to do), thus far no one of them has openly jobbed his office for his own personal benefit. But, at the same time, they have been purely ornamental appendages to foreign courts, without in any way advancing the great commercial interests of our examicy, whose noblited interests of our examicy, whose noblited interests of our examicy, whose noblited interests of our examicy whose noblited interests of our examicy whose noblited interests of our examicy. The old kindlich interests of an ambaswalor was "a person sent abroad to lie for the benefit of his country." Taking oither version of the ambiguous phrase, "the benefit of the country," rever has been the main object althed at the sent sent and making a dummy of him in all masters sens abroad to represent the country. The sobject certainty cannot be satisfied by closing the lies and tying the hances of the scent sent and making a dummy of him in all masters and making a dummy of him in all masters relating to the most essential interests of lite country he is supposed to represent of diato are inged by American representatives in extendation of their limitivity in resonating American interests, which are terrify hand-capped thereby, and these instructions should be made so definite (as the Gerana and English have been) as mot to admit of any sectionstruction hereafter.

It is unjust and degrading to American resonational character to believe that an inarceparate would be made by our representatives of linguished the made by our representatives of highest and industries and help the section of our commercial and industries attacked to be a seried for personal or except purposes. The observation of their national commerce, the instructions show eartiful and the same time explained when the same time explained when the proposition of their materials and making in the same time explained when the same and the same time explained when the same and the commerce and industrial program of the many harden and the same time of the many above them, who as a second to

An impression is entertained in New York that the Baltimere and Ohio will not carry passengers over the Arthur Kill bridge, but would use that rouge for freight business only, and land passengers in Jersey City. Erastus Wiman, president of the Staten Islam Rapid Transit Company, says his company has an iron-clad contract with the Baltimore and Ohio shall give it twice as much business write books show at the time the contract begins to coparate, which will be as soon as the Arthur Kill bridge is finished.

Judge Mitchell heard argument at Philadelphis yesterday upon an interesting contention which has arisen between the Reading and Pennsylvania Enfrond Companies over the right of the Kensington and Tacony Baltroad Company, an offshoot of the latter corporation, to build a roud from a point on the Philadelphis and Trenton railroad near Tioga street to another point near Tacony, through two tracts of land belonging to the Reading company, or coursel for the Reading company, or other point near Tacony, through two tracts of land belonging to the Reading company, or other house for the Reading company, counsel for the Reading company applied for an injunction to restrain a condemnation of the land, and it was granted.
